Wall Street Bears Make Progress, Point Losses Being the Rule-Dullness Follows

GENERAL DECLINES IN THE MARKET, MANY ASKED MANN LED BY COPPER STOCKS. FINANCIAL GOSSIP.

NEW YORK. June 10.—After a firm opening the market quickly developed another weak streak. Looking for an excuse the trading element decided that it was a case of too much Copper, literally, and in the sense that the Amalgamated Copper stock was so weak that it actually dragged the rest of the market down with it. This excuse was accepted, and for the further reason that the general news of the morning was of a favorable character. Because there were no unfavorable developments London opened firm, halting afterward. The market is in a condition where it goes off on bears' selling, but when they try to cover their shorts they find that there is but little stock for sale.

The big interests are inclined to refrain from doing much of anything. They will do nothing to check a break unless it assumes serious proportions, evidently preferring that matters should remain without much change pending the adjustment of certain important questions.

The same that the Amalgamated Copper, and the point gain, and for the further reason that the general news of the morning was accepted, and for the further reason that the general news of the morning was of a favorable character. Because there was $\frac{1}{2}$ on Southern Pacific $\frac{1}{2}$ on the average.

The big interests are inclined to refrain from doing much of anything. They will do nothing to check a break unless it assumes serious proportions, evidently preferring that matters should remain without much change pending the adjustment of certain important questions.

At the lower levels the market maintained a fair front, with a steady tone, and at the same time a very limited movement, the second hour of the afternoon being especially dull.
